HAIR DRESSING SALOON

W. MOORE begs to inform the Gentle-has reduced the price of Hair-Cutting to 50 cents.

Having now in his employ three competent Assistants who are always in attendance, he guarantees to execute this class of work, in all its branches, with a perfection which cannot be exceeded in any part of the World.

Hair-Cutting 50 Cents.

Shampooing 25 Cents.

Shaving 25 Cents.

Trimming Beards 25 Cents.

MONTHLY CUSTOMERS TAKEN AT REDUCED RATES.

RAZORS MOST CAREFULLY RE-SET.

Mr. MOORE begs to recommend his
GOGO SHAMPOO WASH
to the public as unrivalled by any preparation ever produced for promoting the growth of the hair. The basis of this compound is made of soap root; the natives of the Philippine Islands never use anything else for washing their hair; they are never found bald, and it is quite common to see the females with hair from 5 to 6 feet long. By constantly using this Shampoo Wash, as directed, you will NEVER BE BALD.

The proprietor offers the Wash to the public entirely confident that by its restorative properties it will without fail arrest decaying hair. It completely eradicates scurf, dandruff, and cures all diseases of the scalp. It does not contain any poisonous drugs. By its cooling properties it allays the itching and fever of the scalp, which is the great cause of people losing their hair.

Mr. MOORE has succeeded in being able to put this wash up in bottles without allowing it to ferment, and he will guarantee it to keep any length of time in any climate.

The Hongkong Telegraph

HONGKONG, TUESDAY, JUNE 20, 1882.

SEVERAL Eastern papers, says the Morning Call of the 15th ult., are mildly satirical over the Californian proposition to refuse employment to the Chinese. The same journals opposed, with what force they possess, the bill to limit Chinese immigration. According to these lights, therefore, there is no proper relief for California from the immigration that is driving our white workmen from the State. The only remedy they can conceive of is to go to work in competition with the Chinese. It is anti-American, they say, to keep them out, and anti-American to refuse to employ them. Consequently they must hold that it is American to strive to retain a portion of the labor of the country in active competition with them. The reasons have often been given why the American laborer cannot compete with the Chinese. In a general sense, it is because American civilization imposes more responsibility on an American workman than the Chinese often assume. Marriage is not exclusively an American institution, but it is one very generally practised in this country. While women who marry workmen do not expect to be supported in idleness, the performance of a wife's duties interferes with their capacity to earn an independent living. Children, in the most modest American homes, are an expensive luxury. The man who does not feed his child well, clothe it comfortably, and send it to school for at least eight or ten years of his minority, is not looked upon as a good citizen. The American parent, as a rule, wants to do all these things, and he fights hard for wages that will enable him to do them; but the Chinese workman steps in, stripped of the race and pitiless in his purpose to win. The latter has no wife, no children, no social circle and no home. He sleeps on a board and feeds on fifteen cents a day. He has no charities and concerns himself about no one but himself. The sick, if without means, are left to die. The adult male Chinaman, made enduring and patient by the poverty of his early life, is the competitor the American workman has to encounter. The efforts of California to rid itself of this demoralizing competition have only provoked the derision of the Eastern Press. Even now, after Congress has declared that for ten years, at least, these people shall not come here, little consideration is given a cause which so strongly commended itself to the lawmakers. The New York Times has recently discussed the proposition to refuse employment to Chinese in the derisive tone that journal habitually adopts when it speaks of California. The Times says:

"To enforce a non-intercourse act as against the Chinese in California would be difficult if not impossible. Nevertheless, certain stern patriots have resolved to try what can be done in this direction. They have taken a solemn vow to refuse anything of Chinese manufacture, and to refrain rigorously from employing and hiring the Chinese in any manner. The members of the Anti-Chinese League will not knowingly aid, abet, encourage or sustain the Chinese by any commercial or business transaction, and to this they pledge their lives, their liberties and their sacred honor. Left to themselves, 'the hordes' will prey upon each other until none is left to tell the tale of their miserable end by starvation in a strange land."

The proposition which inspires the most biting satire of the Times is that to divert the California trade from certain merchants and business men of New York and Boston, who signed memorials and petitions praying the President to veto the Chinese bill. The resolution not to purchase goods of New York merchants is regarded somewhat as would be a resolution not to eat, drink, sleep or breathe until certain ends were accomplished. Philadelphia, Baltimore and Chicago are kindly advised not to sign objectionable memorials, lest they be left to share the fate pronounced against New York and Boston. The people of this State know very well that they have a difficult task to perform. The State is now drained of about $45,000,000 a year by its working population—at least, money to that amount is earned by persons living in this State, who neither spend nor invest it here. It is absolutely necessary for the prosperity of the State that this alien population be supplanted by one whose home is in the country in which it labours. In this work, which will be slow and tedious, we do not expect aid or sympathy from the class of Eastern journals which are solicitous only for the interests of capital. We propose, however, to continue the work without their aid or advice. The influence they exert on Congress and on the country has frequently been measured of late, and at no time more accurately than in the passage of the Chinese bill, over their combined opposition, by a more than two-thirds vote in each House of Congress. As if this was not a sufficiently emphatic expression of contempt for their opinion, a President, notoriously in sympathy with them, signed the bill, rather than risk the consequences of a veto.

It is reported, says the Shanghai Courier, that the Chinese official world is in a white heat of excitement over some extraordinary demands that have been made by Russia with respect to the Russo-Chinese treaty which has lately been ratified. It appears that Russia is following out towards China that policy which in her European dealings has made Russian diplomacy synonymous with Panica fides. It was not to be expected that a perfidious nation like Russia, to whom treaty obligations are so much waste paper when they stand in the way of her interests or ambition, would act in good faith and honourably with China in regard to the late treaty. If there were a loophole to escape, Russia would take advantage of it, and if cunning could devise excuses and expedients against carrying out the treaty in its entirety, the astute and unprincipled Muscovite would be sure to take hold of the opportunity, and use the language of a hand in dealing with a power that it thought would cover before even the shadow of its arms. For the last few months, the Chinese and Russians have been playing a game of cross purposes in this, and both parties have been exercising a species of petty sharpness in respect to carrying out minor points of treaty obligations. Fugitive reports have reached us from time of the intrigue and counter intrigue and chicanery that has been going on in the district, but we have had no certain information of the transactions between the Russian and Chinese authorities. Russia, however, seems to have been to a certain extent outwitted in this tricky game. Nothing, however, was done by either party in conflict with the treaty or to compromise its terms. The Russians, it would seem were, however, playing a deeper game than that which the plottings of the district officials would lead an observer to believe; they were hatching a scheme and biding their time to allow matters to come to such a pitch when they could suddenly pounce on the Chinese Government and repudiate the treaty. That time seems to have come, for the Chinese Government have been thrown into amazement by Russia coolly and suddenly making a series of demands on China which virtually undo that which the treaty has done, and make it as so much waste paper. We are not in a position to give the whole of the demands of the Russian Government; but some of them are of such a nature as admit of no compromise, and the result of the refusal of which will be war between the two powers. The Russian Government have made six demands on China, three of which we can give.

1.—That Manchu commanders on the Russo Chinese frontier will not be permitted to command any but Manchu soldiers, and that no Chinese soldiers will be allowed in these garrisons unless commanded by Chinese officers.

2.—That the garrison of Chinese soldiers at Hui must be changed for Manchu soldiers.

3.—That the Russians will not transfer Hui as stipulated by article 1 of the treaty for one year.

Demands 4, 5, and 6 are of such a startling character that we withhold their publication for further verifications. If they are insisted on by Russia they cannot but lead to hostilities. The reason why Russia insists on Manchu soldiers being substituted for Chinese on the frontier is that the former are easily corrupted. Russia has been insidiously weakening Chinese influence in this district. There has been a suspicion prevalent for some time that the Russians have been tampering with the Manchus, and that Russia desires to have a riffling army on the frontiers in preference to a well organized Chinese one in order to facilitate the work of conquest should the present question be referred to the arbitration of the sword. At the present time the Peking government is seriously disturbed by the advance of the French in Cochinchina, and by the intrigues that are going on with respect to Japan and Corea. Russia has after her wont seized upon this opportunity to put forth her demands, and evidently she expects, seeing that China is unprepared for a sudden outbreak of hostilities, and that she is distracted with the political out-look in the south and the position of affairs in the north, that the Celestial Empire will be powerless to oppose her exactions and must accept what terms are dictated to her with respect to the treaty, the repudiation of which is the aim and end of the Muscovite. With imperfect information before us, and being entirely in the dark as to the cabinet intrigues of both Russia and China, it is impossible to say what will be the upshot of the whole affair. But we are inclined to the opinion that China will resort to diplomacy in the matter and so gain time, and if that fail then the last argument of kings must be appealed to.

TELEGRAMS.

LONDON, 19th June, 1882. EGYPT.

A Conference will be held without Turkey. The panic is increasing in Cairo, and all the Banks and shops are closed.

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

Most interesting reading is that afforded by the report of the Royal Literary Fund—an excellent institution in its way, and one doing an immense amount of good. The total amount of money bestowed last year in charity was nearly two thousand pounds. With the report appears a table classifying the recipients of relief. In this the authors of essays and tales represent the largest number, there being eight under this heading. One dramatist received too. Besides these there appear under history and biography four, Biblical literature two, periodical literature five, topography and travels six, and classical literature and education seven. It is evident that "essays and tales" do not pay, while dramatic literature seems to suffer from a slight frost. Biblical literature appears to yield the least number of failures, probably because its followers are limited.

SAYS the Sportsman:—A man who can go round the world without winking is a man to be envied. Such an individual, however, it seems, is forthcoming in the person of William Walton of Earlinton (the Waltons always were a remarkable family). This enterprising genius has just set out from his native place upon a tour of the world. He has announced his intention of unfurling the Stars and Stripes in every capital, and intends to secure the autograph of every ruler who can write his own name. "When I have finished my trip," he says, "I shall be the only man who ever went around the world without winking"—his eyelids having been blown off by an explosion in a coal mine several years ago. Mr. Walton acknowledges that he is "an eccentric coon," and it is (an American paper says) not impossible that he will accomplish his purpose, for he is possessed of much money and ineffable assurance. Sergeant Bates accomplished a somewhat similar journey, and went home to be forgotten. There is really no reason why this "eccentric coon" should not go for a big holiday if he feels like it, but why he should seek to gain Imperial autographs is a matter for surprise. If he wends his footsteps in the direction of St. Petersburg he will possibly find the uncrowned monarch does not like strangers.

The above named Walton passed through Hongkong only a few weeks ago, his advent being heralded by a blast from the trumpet of the evening fish-wrangler. We interviewed the "eccentric coon," and found him such a commonplace specimen of humanity, from a sensible standpoint, that we left him in oblivion. We rather think the F.F.W. must have made a similar discovery, as after the first blatant blare announcing the arrival and intentions of the eccentric coon, there was an ominous silence, and we looked in vain for an account of the unfurling of the flag of the Great Republic.

It seems strange in these times of peace to read a description of the enormous forces at work on the Continent for producing weapons of destruction. From an article just published it appears that the Krupp foundry at Essen is furnished with 439 steam boilers, 450 engines of a total power representing over 18,000-horse power, and 82 steam hammers, while the number of workmen employed is 15,700.

ADVERTISING impertinence, says a contemporary, has surely reached its limits when such an announcement as the following will pass muster:—"A titled gentleman (Comte), young, of good family, decorated, fond of travelling, would marry an English or American lady of fortune and possessing the same tastes."—Write Z. T. Poste Restante. Why English or American ladies should be selected as victims for this guileless youth we fail to see. Possibly he has found the fair damsels in other States on the Continent too sharp or too poor for his purposes.

Bad examples, like weeds, spread apace. The encouragement given to the Land League in Ireland, and the consequent vigorous growth of that pestiferous plant seem to have led other people to the conclusion that it would be a good thing to start a similar institution of their own. With this object in view attempts are now being made to float a Land League in Wales. The circular sent out gives conclusive evidence that the initial idea was Irish, inasmuch as it informs those who wish to help the scheme that they should send in their names anonymously.

An important secret, remarks a contemporary, has just been revealed by a certain M. Gros, of Paris. It will be remembered that during the Franco-German war allegations were thrown out on both sides that poisonous bullets had been used. No evidence was forthcoming to substantiate these allegations. The gentleman named, however, has just discovered that the bullet picks up its own poison en route. He explains that the construction of the modern breech-loading arms causes the projectile to convey with it a portion of the hydrocyanic acid which the explosion of the powder has caused to be accumulated in the barrel. Even if poisoning to a mortal extent does not take place, it is remarked that the healing of wounds is materially retarded by this circumstance. It is unpleasant enough to have a bullet embedded in one's body, without the sad reflection that it is encased with "hydrocyanic acid."

A CONTEMPORARY remarks that we occasionally get law cases in England which have dragged their slow length along until the parties concerned have either died in poverty or gone mad. The records of the Court of Chancery are rich in such instances. Apparently, however, England is not the only country in which litigators have to wait for their rights. A pathetic story comes from the States. It is thus told. In 1814 the British Fleet destroyed an American brig in a neutral harbour. The son of its captain has for years haunted the corridors of Washington, pushing his claim for compensation. Congress after Congress, and Secretary after Secretary have reported favourably on his claim, but from some cause or other the Bill recognising the claim was never passed by both Houses in the same year. A few days ago the Bill was passed authorising 70,000 dollars to be paid to the claimant, whose family have been urging their claims for more than sixty-five years. We trust this persevering suitor may live long to enjoy the reward of his labours.

WRITING on the lately established "Knights of Labour" in America, to which we alluded the other day, the Sportsman observes:—This is essentially an age of "levelling up." Labour, fighting against capital, desires to be placed upon an equal footing, while capital struggles to run shoulder to shoulder with intellect and blood. In autocratic Russia and despotic Germany, in sunny Italy and beautiful France, in sober Conservative England and wild, unhappy Ireland the equalising process is gradually working its way. America, however, still keeps in the van. A new order, it is stated, entitled the "Knights of Labour," has recently been founded in the United States, the general object of which is to arrest the "alarmling and aggressive development of accumulated wealth." The new association advocates the abolition of free grants of land to railway companies, and the exclusive donation of these lands to settlers and immigrants, and the prohibition of infant labour. They protest against prison labour, think that the pay of women should be equal to that of men when the work done is the same, and suggest that the day's labour should not exceed eight hours. What sad, degenerate days these are.

THE elements are curiously confounded in Egypt. No one can say positively whether the Sultan encourages the Party of Arabi Pacha and the Ministry as Mussulman, or condemns it as National and Anti-Turkish; whether the ex-Khedive Ismail has really plotted against the Ministers, or uses them as his tools; whether Arabi Pacha is a sentimental dupe, or a reckless intriguer; whether he controls the Army, or the Army controls him; whether the Ministers are creatures of the Notables and of Arabi, or are playing games of their own. But one thing is clear, there would never have been this steady growth of revolt against the old régime if force had been at hand to repress the first military demonstrations. In what form that force should have been applied is fair matter for discussion. Some argue that a European occupation might excite many who now waver into open hostility. Others, with better reason perhaps, believe that the Fellahs are so sensible of the benefits they have received from the Control, that they would welcome foreign soldiers as deliverers. But which soldiers? France will not allow the Sultan's troops to execute the mandate of Europe. England would witness with anxiety a French occupation. France would not readily agree to allow British troops to intervene. The experience of joint occupations is not encouraging, and it is easier to enter than to leave a country like Egypt, so tempting in its fertility and its weakness. Yet some expedient must be found to put an end to the present disorder; and it is the business of Statesmanship to find it.

THE return of visitors to the City Hall Museum for the week ended 18th June, were:—European, 131; Chinese, 1,925; total, 2,056.

A COOLIE was brought up this morning before Mr. Wodehouse for contempt of Court.—Mr. Martin, the Usher of the Police Court, said he heard the defendant make use, in a loud voice, of a filthy expression to another defendant who was leaving the dock in custody, the Court being sitting at the time.—Defendant said he was a new comer, and did not know it was wrong. He held the position of a ricksha coolie.—The Magistrate fined him fifty cents or 4 days' imprisonment.

FIVE Chin Chu coolies and one Punti were up this morning at the Police Court charged with fighting and creating a disturbance in the public street, being armed with bamboos.—Mr. Mossop appeared for the Chin Chu men.—It would appear that the Punti coolie, while carrying wood in Jardine's Bazaar yesterday evening, knocked against one of the Chin Chu men, who are employed on about twenty on each side. Bamboos carrying poles, bricks, &c., were the weapons used, with the result that a woman and two men had to be sent to the Civil Hospital. The woman had her nose badly cut, and she bled a good deal, one man had his right jaw cut, and the other his right foot. They were not, however, seriously injured, and were in the Magistracy Compound this morning, after Mr. Wodehouse had dealt with the other six, whom he allowed out on their personal recognizance in $5 each, the case being remanded till Monday, to see how things would go on between the opposing hosts in the meantime. Inspector Baker said everything was quiet now.

In 1869 the export of pearl-shell from the Colony of Queensland was seventy pounds sterling; in nine years (1878) it had risen to sixty four thousand, six hundred and twenty seven pounds. What the export was last year, or what it will be for the present year, is not likely to be accurately known, for reasons well understood by the men connected with the pearl-shell fisheries of which we are now writing. Thursday Island is the chief seat of this remarkable industry, and although far more convenient to Brisbane and the other Queensland ports than it is to Sydney, it is a most remarkable fact that nearly the whole of the enterprise is worked by the energy and capital of Sydneyites. This may be accounted for in various ways, but the most likely reason that we can imagine is, that the very sparse population of the great territory of Queensland are engaged in equally, or even superior, lucrative pursuits. That the pearl-shelling is worked in a very desultory fashion is patent to any one who has been there; the mixed crowd of miserable wretches in the employ of the Station owners, beggars description. Malays, South Sea Islanders, Queensland blacks, a small proportion of Chinese, Negroes, and the more important, intelligent and better behaved Norfolk Islanders, who are principally the divers, although their special province is gradually being encroached upon by Chinese divers, form the corps. That the above crowd would be, under any circumstances, a very unmanageable one, can readily be understood, but, when we take into consideration that A.V.H. and Queensland run, a veritable fire water, is easily obtainable, the chaos that often reigns supreme is patent to all who have seen what appalling effects the fiery spirits have on these low class races. We do not for a moment say that this drunken habit is solely confined to the savage tribes; a goodly proportion of the white population are ever on the job, Torres Straits skippers and a state of semi-drunk go hand in hand. We admit that there are sensible and respectable behaved sojourners amongst the residents in and around the isolated district, and that a small number are using their time to the best advantage. For ages it has been a reproach against the character of the white men, the pioneers of commerce and civilisation, that they have invariably introduced fiery spirits amongst the low races who inhabit and congregate in these parts, savages whose love for strong drink is so great that it conquers every other feeling within them, and a short stay in Thursday Island would soon convince the most sceptical that the reproach is well deserved. The keepers of the grog shanties, designated by courtesy hotels, and the Station owners have no scruples about serving out liquors of all sorts, as the game is a paying one, the former taking pay for what they supply, while the latter generally debit the wages accounts with stores supplied, and so the confusion goes on. It is only at certain times that the pearl-shelling can be prosecuted, and in the off time, or when a mail steamer is expected, those engaged in the enterprise flock to the chief seat of the industry, and a grand drunk is generally the result. Lately a few of the long-headed captains of steamers trading to and from Thursday Island have been giving the pearl-shell question some serious consideration, and it would not be difficult to quote some instances in which the aforesaid long-headedness has resulted in the rapid piling up of a decent fortune. Actual facts are hard to get at, as it is hardly likely that shrewd men of business, who have such a good thing in hand, will spread the intelligence widely abroad and bring competition against themselves. Thursday Island is a convenient port to Hongkong, as a large number of steamers are now on the Australian lines, and there can be little doubt about the success of any well managed expedition, which made Hongkong its headquarters, that embarked in the lucrative pearl-shelling enterprise. We have seen a preliminary prospectus of a company that was intended to be formed here for the purpose of going into the pearl-shell fishing, but are unable to say if anything definite has yet been arranged. Capital is plentiful in this colony, and we believe that energy and enterprise are not wanting. We have considerable personal knowledge of the subject we have been writing on, and can in all sincerity say that such an enterprise, properly managed, would pay handsome dividends, and appears to our mind to be a much better investment than tramways are ever likely to be, and much superior to investments in bricks and mortar. We may have more to say on this subject at some future time.

MARINE lot No. 223, comprising the two shops in Wing Lok Street and two in Praya Cantone, were sold by Public Auction to-day, by Mr. J. M. Gueles, and realized the sum of $38,900.

We would remind the public that the Banding and Leucade Combination will appear at the Theatre Royal, City Hall, this evening, in Tom Taylor's popular drama "Dead or Alive." The Company should be far more at home in an attractive and romantic drama of this description than they have been in their recent Shakespearean impersonations.

THE irrepressible one had the two boatmen, his failure to convict whom on Saturday of neglect of duty in allowing his yacht to get damaged at Yau-ma-ti, excited his indignation, as already reported by us, up this morning before Mr. Wodehouse on a charge of stealing 3 pieces of lead, 2 Chinese mats, a copper slop pail and a piece of Manila rope, his property, valued altogether at $40, between the 1st and 16th inst.—The complainant said his name was Thomas Ide Bowler, and he was a broker carrying on business at No. 9, Beaconsfield Arcade. The first defendant was his head boatman, the second being also a boatman in his employ, on board the yacht called the Pinafore, which belonged to him (T.I.B.). Both defendants lived on board, or ought to do, and the yacht was anchored off "Blue Buildings," Wan-chai. On the 1st inst. he took stock of the yacht and its belongings in presence of both defendants, and told the first he would hold him responsible for anything missing or for any damage done to the yacht. The first defendant had been on board the yacht as a substitute for another man for some weeks. He paid him $19 a month, out of which defendant was to provide another man and a boy for the yacht, which he thought would leave him about ten Mexicans for himself per mensem. He had learned that the first defendant had been sailing the yacht upon his own account, without his (Thomas Ide's) permission, doing the craft considerable damage. He found the graceful creature one day last week lying on her beam ends on the beach at Yau-ma-ti, and not a soul anywhere near her. After about three hours' perquisition at Yau-ma-ti, he came across the two defendants, who were apparently drunk, and gave both in custody at the Yau-ma-ti Station, charging them with disobedience of orders, but the case was dismissed. He really gave them in charge because he knew some things were missing from the yacht, but he was so incensed, the matter escaped his memory afterwards. He missed some of the articles then, viz.—2 mats, 40 fathoms new Manila rope, 1 tin pan, 1 copper pail, and numerous sundry articles of trifling value. The rope was worth $5.75.—Mr. Wodehouse, by way of interrogatory, here said to Mr. Bowler,—"After handing the defendants over to the police you?"—Thomas Ide, without allowing his Worship to proceed further, and with one of his most winning smiles, remarked, "I think I went home your Worship." The peculiarly dry way in which T. I. B. brought this out, apparently not intending any humour, was calculated to excite the risible faculties of a gorilla. Bowler proceeded to say that yesterday morning, the yacht being righted, he found, upon examination, that 3 pieces of lead used as ballast were missing, weighing each one picul, 20 catties, and worth about $6.50 each. From information received, he made a report to the Police, and applied for the re-arrest of the two men whom Captain Thomsett was vigilant enough to let off on Saturday, when he (Thomas Ide) had incontrovertibly established their heinous guilt. However, Mr. Bowler was not going to wait for the slow red-tape movements of the police, and so thought, he would pose in the capacity of a self-constituted special constable. Meeting the delinquent boatmen in Queen's Road Central, he arrested both himself, rushed them into a ricksha, and gallantly ran them to No. 2 Station, where he charged them with the theft.—Inspector Baker here stated that the first defendant said he took the rope and put it into Mr. Francis' yacht.—Mr. Bowler said the rope in Court was very like his, but that it was impossible to wear out a piece of rope; he recognized the tin pan as having been stolen from the yacht. Inspector Baker remarked that the lead had not been recovered, but he had a man in Court who bought a piece of lead from the first defendant.—Mr. Bowler said that, so far, he had not missed anything else. He had dismissed the defendants and paid them off. The copper pail had been stolen from his house, to which the first defendant had access.—Mr. Wodehouse told Mr. Bowler that they were now dealing with the things stolen from the yacht, not from his house, and that he could separately charge the first defendant with the theft of the pail.—Thomas Ide, after giving one of his most graceful bows, proving he had studied "deportment," said he wished to charge the man in respect to the copper pail. He had seen Mr. Francis, and was told by that gentleman that the first defendant was not in his employ, though he had been.—The bowman of Mr. Bowler's yacht gave evidence as to the taking away of the three pieces of lead from the yacht by the defendants, upon the pretence that they were going to melt it down and re-shape it as required by their master.—Police Constable Rogers deposed that the first defendant denied stealing the articles, but said he had taken them away with his master's permission, and that he could get all the things back again. He then took the Constable to Mr. Francis' yacht, off the "Blue Buildings," and showed him the rope and the pail in Court, saying they belonged to Mr. Bowler. Then he took the Constable to a small boat alongside the wharf and picked out the pan, which he said also belonged to Mr. Bowler. Next he took the Constable to a shop in Queen's Road West where he said he had taken the lead to be re-melted by his master's orders. It turned out, however, that he had sold one piece off to the shopman for $4.67, representing himself as a seaman employed on board a steamer going to America, and stating his master had given him the lead, as it was useless to him.—Mr. Wodehouse remanded the case till Friday the 23rd instant. It looks as if T. I. B. were going to score a victory this time over his yacht-damaging enemies in the lead business.

ADVISED from Bonny on the west coast of Africa state that hostilities continue between the followers of Olo Jumbo and the New Calabar natives, and that great slaughter has taken place on both sides. Reinforcements from Bonny are despatched almost daily, as well as supplies and ammunition.

SAYS the London Figaro of 13th ult., the Russians are reported to be very busy in the Cronstadt dockyard, in view of possible difficulties with China. There are to be fourteen more Russian ships, capable of carrying eight thousand men, on the Pacific Coast within six months. One would imagine that the Czar had enough on his hands already, without quarrelling with his pig-tailed neighbors, who may, very likely, not be beaten quite so easily next time as they were when the French and ourselves destroyed the 'Taku forts.' They have a number of waspish little gunboats, built in Europe after the newest patterns; and are said to have 100,000 chassepot rifles, taken from the French in the Franco-German war.

A BRICKLAYER was charged this morning before Mr. Wodehouse with snatching a pair of earrings from a Chinaman. The lady only arrived in Hongkong yesterday to make enquiries about her husband, who is in California. Whilst walking near No. 5 Police Station, about 8 p.m., the bricklayer snatched the earrings from her ear, and ran off. She called out, and Police Sergeant Campbell, who was just starting for a walk, seeing the snatcher make tracks, gave chase, and, after a keen pursuit, overhauled him in Jervis Street, about 1,000 yards from the scene of the robbery. Campbell, who never lost sight of the bricklayer, called to several Chinese on the line of route to stop the fellow, but not one of them would move a finger in the business. The earrings were in the prisoner's mouth when Campbell overtook him. Campbell said the prisoner was not known in gaol, but he had reason to believe he was one of a gang of six snatchers just come down from Canton. Two other cases of carrying snatching took place in Hollywood Road last night.—Defendant admitted the charge. Mr. Wodehouse deferred sentencing the prisoner until the arrival of Captain Thomsett, in order that two Magistrates might deal with the case. Upon Captain Thomsett taking his seat on the bench alongside Mr. Wodehouse, the latter told the prisoner that there was evidently an organized system of carrying snatching going on, and as the case was a serious one, he would be sent to gaol for two years with hard labour. The prisoner is a lithic, supple looking Chinaman, with every appearance of swiftness and long wind, while Campbell is rather obese, not, apparently, intended by Nature for a runner, and therefore deserves great credit for the extra exertions he must have put forth to have enabled him to overhail the bricklayer.

ADDITIONAL importance, says a contemporary, is lent to the murder of Lord Frederick Cavendish and Mr. Burke by the consideration that it is the first of the kind that has ever occurred in Ireland. It is noteworthy, indeed, that in a country where, to the expression of a famous Irish Attorney-General, "assassination has long been as familiar as fowling," the life of the Chief Secretary to the Lord-Lieutenant, who is commonly held responsible for the conduct of affairs, has never been taken or even attempted before. Lord George Sackville, afterwards Lord George Germaine, the supercilious "Secretary Blashaw" of the Duke of Dorset's second and most unpopular viceroyalty, who divided with Prime Stone the hatred of Irishmen of all classes and creeds, was never touched. Mr. Pelham, who, under timid, vacillating Lord Camden, had to fight the "United Irishmen" single-handed, was only stabbed in the columns of the Northern Star or Freeman's Journal, while Castlereagh himself, who "turned the Irish Parliament House into a bank-parlour," lived to die by his own hand at North Cray. Perhaps the assassination of Lord Kilwarden (Chief Justice Wolfe) comes nearest to that of the late Chief Secretary in the horror it excited; and it is curious to note that in both cases the assassin obtained, from his victim the identification he required. The Chief Justice was driving in the streets of Dublin with his daughter when his carriage was stopped and attacked in Thomas Street. He put his head out of the window and cried out, "It is I, Kilwarden, Chief Justice of the King's Bench." "You are the man I want," answered a man close by, and instantly plunged a pike into his breast. The Whigs of those days were quite as much possessed as our present Radicals with the idea of coaxing rebellion into loyalty. When O'Connor, the preacher of assassination, was tried at Maidstone, in 1879, Charles James Fox came forward to swear to his respectability; and Quigley was hanged amid the sobs of the Whitebreads, Howards, and Russells.

HANKOW.

[FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.]

June 7th, 1882.
The Glenorchy left early this morning to fill up at Kiukiang. The Ferona clears on the 10th. Most of the tea men have returned to Shanghai, the rest are following. The Hankow and Fleur de Caste are the only British ocean steamers now in port. On Saturday there is to be a cricket match—the Hankow Cricket Club v. Cricket Club of the Hankow. The Fleur de Caste leaves either on Saturday or Sunday morning.

June 9th, 1882.
The Fleur de Caste left this afternoon at four o'clock. The Ferona departs on the 10th. The Hankow is advertised to load at 2.12.6 less five per cent. off, for London, and £10.00 more for Odessa. There is a row up the river between here and Ichang. Some Wachang and Hanyang men quarrelled because one party wanted a share in the business which was monopolized by the others; so they came to blows, and a number of people have been killed—report says several hundreds. There is another row at a place not so far. There the people have quarrelled over a water course, though I believe no one has been killed so far. Placards have been posted near Ichang to the effect that a missionary has made a meal of a series of meals off a couple of tender Chinese babies. The Hunanmen, who was put into duress, of whom I wrote some time since, has been liberated. Another batch of tea tasters leaves by the Pekin to-night, so that there are very few left here now. Others depart by to-morrow night's boat.—Courier.

SHANGHAI.

While the Fuh-wo was along side the Hulk yesterday afternoon at Chinkiang, the boats containing His Excellency the Viceroy of Nanking, T'ung-tang and suite, passed that port at 4 o'clock, the several house-boats being towed up to Nanking by a Chinese man-of-war.

The Achilles, with the Chinarini Establishment on board, arrived at Wosung yesterday, and it is gratifying to hear that, having had a smooth passage, all on board are well. Owing to the deep draught the vessel is drawing, she is at present unable to get over the bar, but after lightening, she is expected to come up to-morrow morning, and so, we may predict the first performance on Wednesday.

It is said that one element in the present difficulty between Russia and China is in respect to the overland trade, as regulated by the late treaty. The trade regulations attached to this treaty prohibited the importation of opium by Russians per overland route, into China, and a Chinese authority informs us that this anti-opium clause is one of the "bones of contention," for Russia wishes to have it deleted altogether.

We understand that a compact has been entered into by the three leading shipping firms connected with the Yangtze trade—Messrs. Jardine, Matheson and Co., Messrs. Butterfield and Swire, and the China Merchants Company by which a rise in freights has been made. The result has been that some of the boats come "drying light," and to crowd the small boats belonging to Mr. Melan which are reaping a golden benefit, as was proved to-day on the arrival of the Corvus de Paris, which steamer came in full. The system of dividing profits has been carried out on the Ningpo line for some time past between two of the above-named firms, but whether it will succeed on the great river remains to be proved.

We are happy to be able to state that the strike in the building trade was settled in the City yesterday, the 13th inst. That which the Taitai was unable to accomplish, the Gaidis amicably settled among themselves, both the Shanghai and Ningpo artisans being well represented by their headmen. The arrangements came to between the contractors and workmen take the form of a concession to the latter. Hence forward the men will receive 50 large cash more to the dollar, three dry rice meals per diem, and four meat meals per month instead of two. These concessions amount to about ten per cent. increase on wages; but it is not expected that they will affect future contracts to any degree, as the rise and fall in the price of materials will more than equalize the modest advance in wages secured by the workmen. The strike has been purely a grievance between the Ningpo and Shanghai men, the former being the agitators in the late dispute. The men have to-day returned to work, and all apprehensions of disturbances are over.

We have information from a reliable source that the Chinese Government solicited the good offices of the British in regard to the advances of the French in Annam. Some diplomatic transactions have passed between the French and British representatives on the subject; but the result has not been satisfactory. The French are represented as having politely but firmly declined to allow the British or any other foreign power to interfere with their affairs in Annam; and they have signified their intention of doing what they please in respect to the policy they are carrying out in Cochinchina. Moreover, it is stated that the Chinese Government are to blame entirely in letting matters come to the present pass; and that if they had acted straightforwardly and firmly instead of adopting a tricky vacillating policy, the French would never have caused to deal as they have, with respect to a territory which is the Celestial Empire. The Chinese Government are reported to be alarmed at the state of affairs in the south, especially as they see that temporising is out of the question, and that arms not words are the only instruments to be employed in this case.

The ill luck of Signor Chinarini seems to stick to him. The detention of the Achilles in assisting the company's steamer Sarpedon into Hongkong was in itself enough to cause considerable expense and anxiety to the proprietor; but when reaching here to find that within twelve miles of his destination it would take three days to reach Shanghai, the worthy proprietor must evidently have thought that all possible obstacles had been placed in his way. However, the officer that Signor Chinarini comes to Shanghai he will find that the "Heaven sent barrier" is not a subject of to-day; and he will also learn that foreigners do not appreciate this bar to commercial enterprise. However, Mr. Wilson, the agent, has done good service since the Achilles arrived at Wosung, and by the aid of cargo boats landed yesterday at the Ming-kiang wharf a great portion of the canvas and fittings of the Achilles came up this afternoon, all will be in readiness to land. Since the above has been written, we have been informed that it will be possible for the circus to open to-morrow evening, but it is almost certain that the first performance will take place on Thursday. Our readers will be positively informed to-morrow of the day of opening.—Courier.

W. P. MOORE begs to inform the Gentlemen of Hongkong and Visitors that he has reduced the price of Hair-Cutting to 50 cents. Having now in his employ three competent Assistants who are always in attendance, he guarantees to execute this class of work, in all its branches, with a perfection which cannot be excelled in any part of the World.

MONTHLY CUSTOMERS TAKEN AT REDUCED RATES.
RAZORS MOST CAREFULLY RE-SET.

Mr. MOORE begs to recommend his
to the public as unrivalled by any preparation ever produced for promoting the growth of the hair. The basis of this compound is made of soap root, the natives of the Philippine Islands never use anything else for washing their hair; they are never found bald, and it is quite common to see the females with hair from 5 to 6 feet long. By constantly using this Shampoo Wash as directed, you will NEVER BE BALD.
The proprietor offers the Wash to the public entirely confident that by its restorative properties it will without fail arrest decaying hair, completely eradicate scurf, dandruff, and cures all diseases of the scalp. It does not contain any poisonous drugs. By its cooling properties it allays the itching and fever of the scalp, which is the great cause of people losing their hair.
Mr. MOORE has succeeded in being able to put this wash up in bottles without allowing it to ferment, and he will guarantee it to keep any length of time in any climate. [268]

By private steamer the postage is two cents (one penny).

3.—Private steamers leave Hongkong for London about every ten days.
4.—The letters must not exceed half an ounce. No handkerchiefs, jewellery, &c., can be sent, even with the postage open.

Many boxes of letters are received at the Post Office not sealed, that is to say, the box is fastened with sealing wax, but there is no impression of a seal.
The attention of boxholders is called to the necessity of carefully sealing such boxes with some recognisable seal, and of sending a check-book or receipt with them. The omission of the latter precaution leaves a doubt as to whether the contents of the box ever reached the Post Office; the omission of the former, as to whether part of them might not have been abstracted for the sake of the Postage Stamps.
